Erosion Temporarily Closes Beachfront

A powerful Atlantic storm brought large swells to the Florida’s east coast.

Hazardous marine and beach conditions continued today bringing more flooding and erosion to the beach. The dunes that keep sand on the beaches and its vegetation have been damaged.

As a result, the Dania Beach beachfront parking lot has been temporarily closed today.

The Public Services Department has been clearing the parking lot, cleaning up debris and sweeping the sand off the streets.

The storm is moving NE over the open Atlantic and away from the United States. Gradual improvements are expected for the rest of the week.

The City will open the parking lot as soon as it has been cleared and is considered safe.
